

Martin Luther King Jr.

Did You Know...?

A Black woman called Rosa Parks was arrested in 1955 after refusing to give up her seat on a bus to a White man.

Martin Luther King Jr. was a Black man and he was born in the USA on 15th January 1929. He enjoyed playing sports, playing the piano and going to school as a child. Sadly, life was often hard. Some people treated him differently because of the colour of his skin.

Times were hard for Black people living in the USA. There were separate areas for Black people and White people on public transport, parks, restaurants and even in toilets.

Black children were not allowed to go to school with White children. They had to go to separate schools that didn't have many resources to help with their learning.

Martin Luther King Jr. was a Christian who wanted to make sure that all Americans had the same rights regardless of their race. He became a civil rights activist. This means that he campaigned for improved rights for people.

In 1963, Martin Luther King Jr. led a huge march in Washington DC, the US capital. In front of the enormous crowd, Martin Luther King Jr. made his famous 'I Have a Dream' speech. Here is a short piece of that speech:

"I have a dream that one day.... little Black boys and Black girls will be able to join hands with little White boys and White girls as sisters and brothers."

Did You Know...?

Martin Luther King Jr. was only 39 years old when he was killed. Many thousands of people went to his funeral.

It is because of Martin Luther King Jr. and others like him that the law was changed in the USA. The new law stated that everyone had the same rights regardless of skin colour. The law was also changed so that everyone could vote.

There is still a long way to go for racial equality in America but the work of Martin Luther King Jr. was a big step in the right direction.

In 1964, he received the Nobel Peace Prize for his efforts to end racial prejudice in the USA.

There is an American national holiday to celebrate his birthday every January.

The 1955 Bus Boycott

A Black woman called Rosa Parks was arrested in 1955 after refusing to give up her seat on a bus to a White man. This took place in the city where Martin Luther King Jr. preached.

Martin Luther King Jr. called on Black Americans to protest by not travelling on buses in that area. This protest lasted for 385 days and ended with a United States court ruling that ended separate areas for Black people and White people on all Montgomery public buses.

Martin Luther King Jr. was a Black man and he was born in the USA on 15th January 1929. As a child, he enjoyed playing sports, playing the piano and going to school. Sadly, life was often difficult. Some people treated him differently based on the colour of his skin.

At the time, there were separate areas for Black people and White people on public transport, in parks, restaurants and even public toilets. Up until the 1960s, Black people in some states of the USA could not vote in elections.

Black children were not permitted to go to school with White children. They had to go to separate schools that didn't have many resources to help with their learning.

Martin Luther King Jr. was determined to make sure that all Americans had the same rights regardless of their race so he became a civil rights activist. This means that he campaigned for improved rights for people.

Martin Luther King Jr. went on to organise other non-violent demonstrations against the unfair treatment of Black people. In 1963, Martin Luther King Jr. led a huge march in Washington DC, the US capital. In front of a crowd of 250,000 people, King made his famous 'I Have a Dream' speech. Here are some short extracts:

"I have a dream that one day.... little Black boys and Black girls will be able to join hands with little White boys and White girls as sisters and brothers."

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the colour of their skin but by the content of their character."

The 1955 Bus Boycott

A Black woman called Rosa Parks was arrested in 1955 after refusing to give up her seat on a bus to a White man. This took place in the city where Martin Luther King Jr. preached.

Martin Luther King Jr. called on Black people to protest by not travelling on buses in that area. The boycott lasted for 385 days and the situation became so tense that Martin Luther King Jr.'s house was bombed. Other people were furious and wanted to fight back with violence but Martin Luther King Jr. said that things needed to be solved peacefully and talked about the importance of White people and Black people getting along.

The boycott ended with a United States court ruling that ended racial segregation on all Montgomery public buses.

Martin Luther King Jr. was the leader of the Black civil rights movement. He spoke out against laws which kept Black people and White people separate and led marches demanding fair laws for all people. Martin Luther King Jr. was determined to ensure that all Americans had the same rights regardless of their race.

He was born on 15th January 1929 in Atlanta, Georgia, USA. His father was a pastor and his mother had been a teacher. Martin Luther King Jr. loved to play with his friends but, as his friends got older, two of them stopped playing with him. The father of one of the boys didn't like his son playing with him because he was Black. Martin Luther King Jr. was deeply hurt and upset and couldn't understand why the colour of his skin would make any difference.

For Black people living in the USA, life was challenging. There were separate areas for Black people and White people on public transport, in parks, restaurants and even in public toilets. This was called segregation. Up until the 1960s, Black people in some states of the US could not vote in elections.

In some states, Black children had to go to separate schools from their White peers. These schools were often poorly funded and equipped.

Martin Luther King Jr. went on to organise other non-violent demonstrations against the unfair treatment of Black people. In 1963, he led a huge march on Washington DC, the US capital. The march on Washington involved 250,000 people travelling to the Lincoln Memorial. Here, in front of the enormous crowd, Martin Luther King Jr. made his famous 'I Have a Dream' speech. Here are some short extracts:

"I have a dream that one day... little Black boys and Black girls will be able to join hands with little White boys and White girls as sisters and brothers."
